This chart indicates notable differences between the Senate-passed and the House-passed versions of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009. This chart includes amendments accepted by the Senate, including the Collins-Nelson (NE) compromise amendment. Additional minor differences, such as the commissioning of various studies in the two bills, may exist.

Note: Two provisions not under the jurisdiction of the Finance Committee should be noted as present in the Senate bill and not present in the House-passed bill. These Dodd and McCaskill provisions limit compensation for officers and directors of entities receiving emergency economic assistance and/or funding under the Troubled Asset Relief Program.
