Identifying and Limiting Risk Exposure

Thursday, October 4, 2018, Noon - 1:15 p.m. (Eastern Time)

The American Benefits Council and The Conference Board Governance Center, joint sponsors of the Global Benefits and Compensation Roundtable, are pleased to invite you to the next webinar providing a forum for addressing current cross-border benefits and compensations topics.

Retirement plan/scheme risk exposure continues to grow in different countries around the world. The multinational company is confronted by the challenges of how to: (i) identify area of risk in terms of plans maintained by subsidiaries around the world; and then (ii) limiting risk exposure. A major underlying consideration is the role of a multinational company's global plan governance policy in terms of both identifying and limiting this risk exposure.

This session will explain the core considerations in deciding upon a global plan governance policy, identify emerging areas of risk and consider how a global governance structure can help in limiting such risk. Among various topics, our panel of experts will discuss:

- Global plan governance: Key aspects and considerations
- Current and developing areas of risk for the multinational company
- Audit risk
- Core considerations in developing a global plan governance policy
- Aon study of current trends and governance structures
